FOOD & WINE

PAIRING

When pairing food and wine, the goal is synergy and balance. The wine shouldn't overpower the food, nor should the food overpower the wine.

Wine drunk by itself tastes different than wine with food, because wine acts on food similar to the way spice does. Acids, tannins and sugars in the wine interact with the food to provide different taste sensations.

Memorable food and wine pairing is achieved you find similarities and/or contrasts of flavour, body (texture), intensity and taste.

Above all don't stress over the perfect food and wine pairing. The best pairing is good food, good wine and good company.
